Milk taken off shelves; dairy plant shut down

by Lois Rodrick

Jewel Cos. on Tuesday voluntarily removed all milk from its supermarket shelves and closed a milk-processing plant linked to a possible second wave of salmonella poisoning cases.

An earlier outbreak, blamed last week for more than 2,000 cases in five states, was traced to milk from the Jewel facility.

"All milk has been withdrawn from sale in all Jewel Food Stores pending the determination of the presence of salmonella by the Illinois Department of Public Health," said Jewel spokesman Bill Newby.

The dairy was shut down Monday night, Newby said, and the 217 supermarkets operated by Jewel and its affiliates "will stock milk from other sources" until the facility is cleared. The stores normally stock only Jewel milk brands—Hillfarm and Bluebrook.

The grocery stores are located in four states—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Iowa. Salmonella poisoning cases have been reported in those four states and in Wisconsin.

The closing of the Hillfarm dairy in suburban Melrose Park came shortly after medical officials reported the death of a 61-year-old woman who had been hospitalized for treatment of salmonella poisoning, according to Associated Press reports.

It also followed reports that a second batch of 2 percent fat-content milk was suspected in new cases of salmonella poisoning, Newby said.

Within the last two weeks, the Coles County Health Department has 25 reported cases of salmonella food poisoning with 16 cases confirmed, CCHD Director of Environmental Health Dan Stretch said Tuesday.

Ralph Irons, assistant manager of the Charleston Eisner, Tuesday said the milk was probably not bad but the removal was a safety precaution. Both the Charleston and Mattoon Eisners receive their milk from the Melrose Park dairy.

"We have been drinking the same milk at home and we haven't been sick," Irons said.

All the Hillfarm and Bluebrook milk had been removed from the shelves of the Charleston Eisner and the store will sell Meadow-Gold brand until further notice, he added.

State health officials last week started investigating 2 percent milk suspected in the first wave of illness, which was dated March 29 and marketed under the Bluebrook brand.

The probe was expanded Monday to include 2 percent Hillfarm milk dated April 8 after patients in an apparent second wave of cases reported drinking it.

Both brands are processed at the Jewel facility. Several lawsuits have been filed against Jewel in connection with the outbreaks.

Newby said that while only 2 percent milk was considered suspect, all milk—whole, skim, 1 percent and 2 percent—was being removed from Jewel affiliated stores.

Jewel was offering refunds to customers who bought the milk, he said.

The company asked customers with unopened containers of 2 percent milk to return it for tests by health officials. People with opened containers should dispose of it, Newby said.

Eastern's food service does not stock Hillfarm or Bluebrook brand milk.

Chet June, spokesman for the Illinois department of Public Health, said Monday the state health department has received 1,871 reports of suspected salmonella poisoning with 1,415 cases confirmed. However, he said it is not known how many cases are linked to the Bluebrook milk.

Diggin' it

Construction workers Tuesday dig holes for three 40,000 gallon oil reserve tanks needed as a part of Eastern's coal conversion project. Seventh street is closed off to accommodate work to install piping from the plant to the tanks located across the street. The oil stored in the tanks will be as a backup fuel supply. Dean evaluation planned by senate

by Jean Wright

The Faculty Senate unanimously decided Tuesday to hold faculty evaluations of deans even if Eastern President Stanley Rives does not approve.

"The Faculty Senate just might take it (the dean evaluations) into their own hands if they are told no again," said senate member Scott Smith.

Faculty Senate Chairman Ken Sutton said he believes that faculty input is needed for both pro and con viewpoints of the deans.

"There will be faculty evaluations of deans," Sutton said.

The executive council of the Faculty Senate met with Rives Tuesday to discuss dean evaluations, but Rives said he had no comment on the faculty evaluations of deans. Rives added that he wants to "hear what they have to say."

Deans are currently evaluated by Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs. Schick said he is opposed to the evaluations.

The senate also discussed the proposed academic senate which would replace the current Council on Academic Affairs and the Faculty Senate.

While the senate has unanimously expressed disapproval for the proposed academic senate, Sutton said he would like to see the last point of the proposal, which calls for the denial of presidential veto power, passed.

Sutton said he believes that denying presidential veto power would give the Faculty Senate more power. "Anything that would strengthen our hand would be helpful," Sutton said.

The senate also decided to postpone voting on proposed changes in the 1986-87 academic calendar until they receive faculty reaction from a survey.

Under the proposed calendar, there would be 75 class days in fall semester 1986 and the Wednesday before Thanksgiving would be scheduled as a class day with Thanksgiving break beginning at 5 p.m.

However, senate members expressed disapproval of this proposal saying they believed students will still miss classes to lengthen the break.

According to the proposal, during spring semesters that have at least 75 class days scheduled, President's day would be observed rather than Lincoln's birthday.

Other parts of the proposal include:

- a spring break that would be scheduled so classes meet for five weeks after the break.

- no holiday would occur during the first week of the semester. This proposal would assure that classes met at least one week before Labor Day or Martin Luther King's birthday.

- intersession would be expanded from three weeks to five weeks and would allow students to enroll for a maximum of six-semester hours rather than five.

Scholarship winner shows King's ideals

by Amy Zurawski

Senior Jennifer Soule, editor of the Charleston Gay Connection Line, was awarded the Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship Monday by the Eastern chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

Life Science instructor Kandy Baumgardner, president of EIU/AAUP and chairman of the selection committee, said Soule was chosen from 14 nominees because "she best represented the ideals of Dr. King."

"Jennifer is very committed to civil rights," she added. "She has been very active in several areas including women's rights." Soule also plans to attend law school and specialize in civil rights.

Soule said she was honored to receive the award because "it makes all the work I've done here seem worthwhile. Out of all the things I've done at Eastern, this means the most to me because it ends things on a high note."

She added that she believes the award is "a very positive thing for the university and the community because it is a step in the right direction in increasing civil rights awareness."

Soule was presented with a $250 scholarship and a certificate of merit, Baumgardner noted.

Europeans protest for freeze

LONDON—Europe's anti-nuclear protestors, marching by the tens of thousands in traditional Eastertime peace rallies, called on Washington Monday to match Moscow's freeze on deploying medium-range missiles.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher rejected the call made by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Sunday for a freeze on deployment of new U.S. cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Europe.

Thatcher said to end NATO deployment now would "freeze in" an enormous Soviet advantage, estimated by the White House at 10 to one.

Other U.S. allies in Europe declined specific comment on Gorbachev's announcement of a freeze, made in an interview with the Communist Party daily Pravda.

Freeway killer faces sentencing

KANKAKEE—Monroe Lampkin, convicted a second time of murder in a 1979 freeway gunbattle with police, will return to court Wednesday for the sentencing portion of his case.

Patrick O'Brien, an assistant Illinois attorney general who prosecuted the case, said after the conviction Monday night that the state would seek the death penalty.

Judge Patrick Burns, who presided at the trial, said jurors must determine whether Lampkin is eligible for the death penalty and whether it should be imposed.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated about six hours Monday night before finding Lampkin guilty of three counts of murder in the slaying of Illinois State Trooper Michael Mcarter; Mcarter's brother-in-law, Donald Vice; and Paxton Patrolman William Caisse.

Japan opens trade markets

TOKYO (AP)—Japan announced a three-year plan Tuesday to open its markets to foreign products. Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone urged his people to buy imported goods, saying a trade war would bring economic disaster upon them.

No quick results were expected from the Japanese plan, and initial reaction from the United States was muted. Congress, frustrated by a $37 billion U.S. trade deficit with Japan in 1984, has demanded the United States retaliate if Japan does not ease trade barriers.

The Japanese also stressed the need to reduce the dollar's value against the yen, which contributes to the trade imbalance by making Japanese products cheaper to the consumer and U.S. goods more expensive.

Japanese three-year program deals with telecommunications, electronics and other major trade areas of concern to the United States.

Nakasone urged the Japanese, in a nationally televised speech and news conference after the program was announced, to "please buy foreign products."

He said Japan must move rapidly toward free trade because "terrible depression and unemployment" would result if such trading partners as the United States took protectionist measures. Japan had an overall trade surplus of $44.2 billion last year, $36.8 billion of it with the United States. Congress has called for sanctions unless Japan makes it easier for American goods to enter its markets and redress the balance.

The report on "external economic measures" issued Tuesday includes the plan to open markets and says an outline of the program will be completed by July.

In the package are pledges to accept foreign clinical test data for medical equipment, eventually to lower tariffs on plywood products, to simplify technical standards for computer equipment and to ease the way for the purchase of American communications satellites.

It also promises greater freedom for foreign lawyers to practice in Japan, another U.S. demand; more Japanese aid to developing nations and attention to the interests of Southeast Asia and Europe in the future tariff cuts.

The prime minister stressed the urgency of the trade issues with a candor that is rare in Japanese politicians.

He called on "every one of our citizens to please buy foreign products." He said that if each of Japan's 120 million people bought $100 worth of foreign goods, the trade surplus could be cut by $12 billion.

Nakasone, 66, used charts and graphs to illustrate his argument that Japan's tariffs are among the lowest in the world but the Japanese people spend far less per person than Americans and Europeans on foreign manufactured goods.

He praised President Reagan for defending free trade, and said it was his "intense desire that nothing happens to injure the foundation of friendly U.S.-Japan relations."

Bhopal Party platform calling for 'sweeping change'

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of five articles on the goals of student body president candidates.

by Amy Landers

Jon-Pierre Frenza is modest about his bid for Student Body President on the Party Bhopal platform.

"Party Bhopal is the candidate. It is the platform that is important, not my personality," Frenza said. "Bhopal isn't one person, it's an idea of many. . .an idea whose time is now."

The main premise of the Party Bhopal platform is a student referendum form of government.

Under Party Bhopal's platform, the student government would lose its decision-making power and be a purely idea-generating body, which would periodically produce a referendum of issue choices for the student body to vote on, Frenza said.

The official policies of the student government will be determined by the supporting votes of the majority of the students, he added.

"I will do my best to eliminate student government's legislative capabilities," he said. "I think the students have just as much qualification as those on the student senate."

Calling for a "sweeping change in student government," Frenza said, "Joe Butler tore everything down, and Bhopal's platform will rebuild everything."

"I don't like student government; I think the people in it are wrong, self-centered, and in it for personal ambition," Frenza said. "I want to advance a platform that works. My platform is so unique it will give a test to what the students really want."

Frenza said the party gets its name from the India village of Bhopal, where about 2,000 people were killed by a chemical leak from a Union Carbide plant earlier this year.

"We created Bhopal with the idea that people should not be stepped on," he said. "If people elect Bhopal, then they won't be stepped on—they will get the platform they vote on."

"When the whole world is going wrong then it needs to be called Bhopal," is a phrase coined by Eastern disc jockey Dan Hintz, Frenza said. "I think things are going wrong with student government, so it needs to be called Bhopal for awhile."

Frenza said any student would be able to have a referendum on a ballot, as long as it was not completely unfeasible.

Frenza said another key issue on the Party Bhopal platform is "to eliminate money people are paid for working on student government."

If student government officials are paid a salary, "it proves they are in it for personal ambition and not because they truly care," said Frenza.

Frenza said the platform will include "a declaration rejecting U.S. policy towards South Africa."

"If I win, I'll get a referendum on that," he said, adding that what ever the view of the students is regarding U.S. policy is the view student government would support.

If elected, Frenza said he would like to institute a South Africa week as "an awareness week" because "South Africa is an area of the world where people are being killed and repressed the most, and the U.S is the most responsible."

"It's time students woke up and saw what the world is really like," Frenza added.

A declaration of commitment to human rights is a platform policy which is, "generic enough to tuck in anything I want," said Frenza.

The human rights declaration would include statements on "any violation of people's right to do what they want," he added.

The Party Bhopal platform would also take all the platform suggestions of the other presidential candidates and encourage participation and ideas from the students through referendum voting, said Frenza.

Regarding qualifications for student body president, Frenza said, "I'm not qualified, and that's what makes me qualified—my inexperience means I can step on toes and not play political games."

Frenza, who attended high school in Detroit, Mich., said he is running for president because anyone who criticizes student government as much as he does should do something constructive to justify those criticism.

"I'm not asking people to vote for me because they like me or don't like me, but on the basis of Bhopal's ideas," Frenza said.

"Even if I don't win, at least the students will have a choice as to what their government should be," he added.

The original "brain trust" that conceived Party Bhopal includes Dan Hintz, Jeff Lafave and himself, Frenza said.

MORE LIVES CHANGED BY JESUS CHRIST

Last week in the library quad was a day of sharing our relationships with Christ. We shared through speaking of personal experiences, singing songs and presenting skits. But Christ is much more than a one day experience.

Christ gives our life meaning. God loved this world, each one of us, so much that He sent His son to us to love us, teach us, die for us, and conquer death. All this allows us to go to Heaven if only we accept the fact that Christ is the son of the living God and commit our lives to Him.

What is our commitment? Our commitment is trying to return the love God has for us. The ways we can return His love are by really loving others the way Christ showed us to while He was on earth. Mike recently committed His life and this is how he feels:

"For a few days after I committed myself to Christ I was full of a new energy. That energy was Christ. It's a great feeling that I still have."

Our commitment is strengthened each day. We live for Him and He works in our lives by answering our prayers. God has given us help, advice and guidelines for our lives by giving us the Bible. That is something every person yearns for a sometime in their life. When we need someone to talk to about problems, when we're really lonely, or just anytime—He is always there.

Accepting Christ will not make you a perfect person in a snap, but He will help you get through the ups and downs of life.

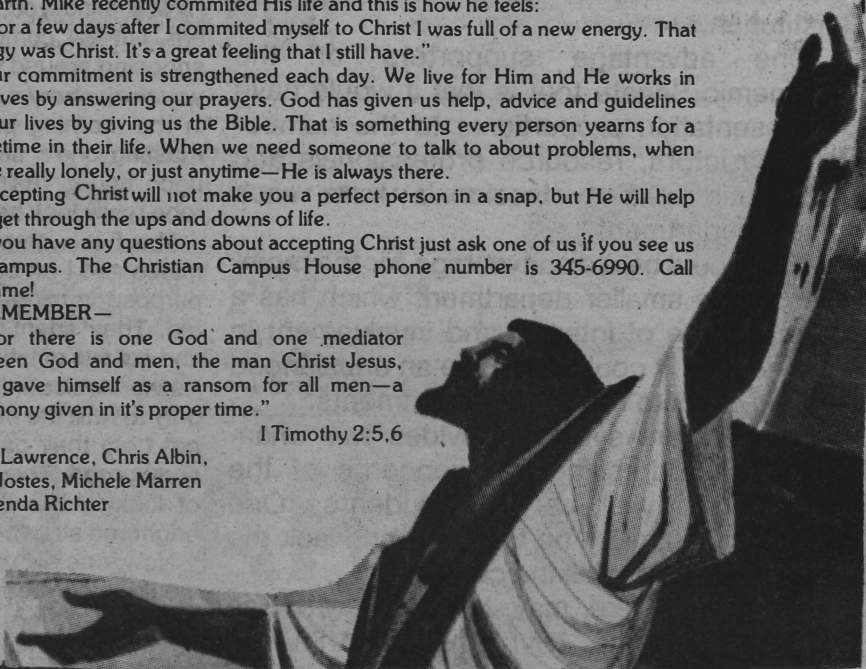

If you have any questions about accepting Christ just ask one of us if you see us on campus. The Christian Campus House phone number is 345-6990. Call Anytime!

REMEMBER—

"For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself as a ransom for all men—a testimony given in it's proper time."

New 'senate' would hamper adequate input

If it's not broke, don't try to fix it. And certainly, don't eliminate it.

Currently, the Institute of University Professionals of Illinois is considering going against this old cliché. They've talked about replacing both the Faculty Senate and the Council on Academic Affairs with one organization—an "Academic Senate."

Editorial

But the change would not be so academic. While the idea of combining forces to add "teeth" to the organization sounds good, the proposal takes a bite from some of the advantages of having two groups.

The existing Faculty Senate reports to President Rives, who has veto power. The proposed Academic Senate would report to the vice president of academic affairs, but provides no administrative veto power.

Such a check to the system is necessary so that the Academic Senate does not become too powerful. The check and balance system is fundamental to orderly governance whether that structure is at a university or at the Capitol.

The Faculty Senate and the CAA both have actively sought student input. However, the Academic Senate proposal does not provide for student representation. This is a major flaw because student input is not only valuable but essential at a learning institution.

One advantage supporters of the Academic Senate tout is that it would have representation proportional to the number of instructors, resource professionals and academic staff professionals from each major department.

This could be a disadvantage for the member of the smaller department which has a high degree of interest and involvement in the senate. It could also give an unbalanced voting block to the larger departments.

The current system provides two channels for addressing the concerns of the faculty as well as the students. One organization might be too large and lack the ability to address all the concerns.

Granted, there may be bugs with the current system. But the CAA/Faculty Senate vehicle simply needs a tune up and not a tow to the junkyard.

Ideas to end exams

Editor:

I am writing this letter from the planet Earth. I was so stunned by the clarity and logic of a viewpoint on Monday, "Final exams ought to be eliminated," that I feel compelled to chip in some ideas to help his plan become a reality. If we all do some of the following things, then his vision may soon become a reality, and right here in Charleston, too:

- only go to medical doctors who have not had to go through the pressures of the dreaded "final exams."

- make sure to fly planes with pilots who have never been forced to "work quickly and accurately under arbitrary time constraints."

- only drive over high bridges, or use elevators in tall buildings, that have been designed by engineers who have never been forced to cope with pressure or with the demands of memorization.

- make sure we only consult with tax attorneys who have never been forced to cram for exams. If you can find a lawyer who has passed his/her bar exam after the fifth try, so much the better for you.

Can you, boys and girls, think of any other ideas to help out? If you can, and I know you can, please send them to: Kill Finals, c/o The H. L. Mencken Society, Boobus Americanus Drive, Department of Speech—Coleman Hall.

Thanks for any contributions to higher thought.

What's all the fuss?

Editor:

My letter is directed to those people who constantly gripe about Black History Month and Women's Awareness Month.

I haven't been able to understand what the fuss is all about. The only reasoning I've been able to come up with is that those people have nothing better to do than put down others for their accomplishments.

For centuries we've lived in a white male dominated society. So if you ask me, the white male gets his recognition 365 days a year. Giving up the spotlight for two months isn't asking for a whole lot.

We are proud of whom we are. As the slogan goes, "You've come a long way baby." We only want to share with others our enthusiasm. No one is demanding that you participate in the activities. And unless you've been enslaved, or been denied your civic rights; your ancestors have shed blood so that one day you might be able to attend any school of your choice; unless you were once stripped of your integrity and made to feel inferior, you couldn't possibly begin to imagine what these two months mean to those of us for whom they were designated. So don't be so quick to criticize.

Suntans not worth possible burns

With the advent of warm, spring-like weather, my list of weird human habits begins to grow.

Never before published, my list consists of odd, this and that's, which humans seem to do in the course of day to day living. Things like nose picking, singing to yourself in the car and writing on bathroom walls head the list.

Recently, I've added a new seasonal habit—one which has just come up in the past few weeks. It's something everyone has done at one time or another, but some more than others. Now without trying to come off sounding like a male chauvinistic pig, I dare say that this oddity is mostly confined to women, although I have seen a few men participating as well.

In my many duties as a worldly, roving photographer—often faced with a hot, summer-like day with nothing worth photographing—one could always count on the sunbathers for a feature picture.

Now mind you, as weird as I think these women are, I'm not complaining. (You'd be surprised what snooping around with a lens will turn up.) And, when you think about it, it does have an eye opening effect in the morning paper. These are my questions: Is roasting one's self in the hot blazing sun for hours upon hours, really worth it? And does the tan skin tone really look better?

The five women that went South with my roommates and I on our Spring Break adventure had one purpose in mind—to get a deep, rich and dark suntan. They spent the whole first day putting gallons and gallons of lotion and baby oil on their pail bodies.

Like dedicated junkies of the sun, they paused only to refill the beer cooler. And you know what they got from their day in the sun? Burned. That's right, sun burned. They were burned so badly that instead of looking like dark, little Indians, they resembled bright red strawberries.

Now one would think, college educated women would know better, but they didn't. After the lotion and alcohol wore off, the moaning and groaning commenced. "Don't touch me— don't touch me!" was all they said for days. One girl, a professional at this "sport," was burned so badly her feet swelled up for a week.

Through the lens:

Brian Ormiston

Now aside from the fact that all these suntanning junkies are probably taking in zillions upon jillions of cancer-causing sun rays, it seems like laying out in the hot sun all day long is a waste of time.

I say this because, as I write, my neighbors are laying out on the cement, waisting their time, trying to look like horses of a different color. These sick suntanning fanatics are out no matter what the weather.

Most people wait at least until they can walk around in shorts without having hairy legs—but not these folks. When the first sign of spring-like weather showed up, even before windbreaker season set in, my neighbors were out soaking in the rays in lawn chairs and blankets.

The neighbors just lie there, listening to new wave "music" all day. I used to think they just had senior slump, but I've never seen them in the bars, so they can't be that sick of school.

When I was on Spring Break among many of these professional suntanners, I was told, as if I should have already known, that suntanning is an exact science. It's getting the right amount of lotion covered all over one's body, so not to get burned on small, inconspicuous parts where the sun doesn't shine.

Now to the casual observer like myself, all of the suntanning business seems a bit odd. But that's why I have this list of mine. Maybe someday I'll write all of these weird human habits down and stick the list in a bottle and throw it in the middle of Lake Charleston.

Then, someday when archaeologists are looking for life after Ronald Reagan, they'll find this list and wonder what life was really like in the '80s.

Hypnotist likes laughter

Performer gives fifth Eastern show

Comic hypnotist Tom Deluca will perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Grand Ballroom.

Deluca, born in upstate New York, has traveled the college circuit for many years, Kim Hagen, special events coordinator for the University Board, said.

"This is Deluca's fifth year to perform at Eastern and it has always been a sellout," Hagen said.

The first half of Deluca's show will entail the use of slides, improvisation and stand-up routine, Hagen said.

The second half will be an hypnosis performance in which he uses volunteers from the audience, she added.

Admission for the show is $1.50. Tickets are available at the Union box office.

Senate considers audits

The audits of 1984-85 budgets for three student fee-funded organizations will be considered Wednesday by the Student Senate.

Auditing committee chairman Dwayne Gunville will present the audited books for Student Publications Board, Players and senate, Senate Speaker Ron Wesel said.

He added that before the semester is over the auditing committee will complete audits of Sports and Recreation Board, Apportionment Board and University Board.

All audits are presented to the senate, which meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union-addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

Wesel said the audits are "an additional check to see the students' money is spent as it should be."

Lecture to focus on economic development

Richard Lutovsky, president of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce, will speak at 7 p.m., Wednesday, in Phipps Lecture Hall.

"Excellence in Business," which is part of Business Week '85, will explore the topic of economic development in Illinois and its relationship to a global economy, Lutovsky said.

Lutovsky will also discuss his experiences on a recent trip to the Far East with Governor Thompson.

In his speech Lutovsky looks at trade with the Far East "in a different perspective."

He will also discuss the importance of working closely with local government.

Computer music demonstration to be given

James Beauchamp will demonstrate how computers are entering the world of music in a talk entitled "Computer Music for Composers," at 7 p.m., Wednesday, in Old Main room 303.

"He (Beauchamp) will be bringing tapes and playing samples of computer music from his group at U of I, as well as from other computer groups around the country," Anthony Schaeffer of Eastern's math department said.

The program, sponsored by the Association for Computing Machinery and the Department of Music, is free and open to the public.

Department plans editor's visit

by Pamela Lill

Robert Kriebel, editor of the Lafayette, Ind., Journal and Courier, will visit campus Wednesday as part of Journalism Month activities, journalism instructor Howard Price said.

Kriebel, who has been with the paper for 30 years, will speak to five journalism classes and answer students' questions at an informal luncheon at Pickles.

Starting as a reporter, Kriebel has held a number of positions at the Journal and Courier. Kriebel has been city editor, managing editor, political editor and columnist. He has held his present position of editor for the past six years.

In addition to his editorial responsibilities, Kriebel supervises students in the "Teaching Newspaper" internship program in cooperation with Northwestern University. He has also taught newswriting classes at Purdue Kriebel is the author of two books, including a history of newspapers in Lafayette.

The luncheon is sponsored by the journalism department and the group organizing a chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists/Sigma Delta Chi.

TODAY...

He's back by popular demand! Yes it's true, Tom Deluca, the only personality to successfully blend comedy and hypnosis, is back on Eastern's campus. Tonight, at 8:00 only, you can see him preform his outrageous hypnotic antics in the Union Grand Ballroom for only $1.50.

Tom's educational background has separated his show from ordinary hypnotists. Drawing upon his masters degree in Psychology, years of experience as a clinical hypno-therapist and seminar instructor, Tom tailors his show to amuse, entertain, and educate any type of audience. As many as fifteen volunteers from the audience are placed under hypnosis to give graphic and humorous proof of the power of the mind.

If you missed the last time he was here, now's your chance to see it and find out why his last audience talked about it for weeks.

—Keith King

"One of the most requested acts on college campuses today."

FRIDAY FLICK...

Harrison Ford is back as Indiana Jones in one of the biggest hits of 1984! In his exhilarating sequel to Raiders of the Lost Ark, Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom has nonstop action when Indie must penetrate an devil-worshipping cult to retrieve a sacred stone and rescue a Himalayan village.

Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom will be shown at 6:30 and 9:00 Friday in the Grand Ballroom.

—Jay Hagberg

"Watching Steven Spielberg's exuberantly entertaining Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom is like spending the day at an amusement park. It moves moves tirelessly from one ride or attraction to the next."

—Vincent Canby
New York Times

FREE MOVIE...

Raiders of the Lost Ark will leave you breathless even on the second or third viewing. Join Harrison Ford in his first blockbuster movie as a swash-buckling hero, Indiana Jones. Jones, with his spunky girlfriend, Karen Allen, must battle foes of every shape, size, and description. Raiders of the Lost Ark will be shown for FREE in the Video Tape Lounge, located on the second floor of the Union, next to the Union Walkway.

Samuels anticipates signing of five recruits

Michael Chron
Eastern basketball coach Rick Samuels and his assistants Steve Yount and Hank Harris headed out Wednesday morning expecting to sign five players to scholarships on National Letter Day.

Wednesday is "officially" the first day players can sign national letters of intent, as college coaches around the country start beating the bushes for prospective players.

Samuels, fresh from completing his fourth year at Eastern, is excited about the chances.

"We are having a good year recruiting-wise, and we're very optimistic about signing our recruits Wednesday," he said. "We have a good program to sell at this Division I school and the players we are after are excited."

It has been announced that two of the recruits are Lake Park Roselle's Vance, a 6-6 center, andwego's Brian Murphy, a 6-9 swing forward, who signed letters with Eastern last fall.

Also, in published reports, two other recruits said to be heading to Eastern are Don Peavy, a 6-5 forward from West Frankfort, and Jay Taylor, a 6-2 guard from East Aurora.

Samuels has six scholarships to award, and would have two left after signing these four. The fifth ride is expected to be handed out to one of the top players in central Illinois, but that won't be known until sometime Wednesday.

"If we don't use that sixth scholarship, we can hold it open or even possibly use it later on this spring or summer," Samuels explained.

"Or it might be that we would hold it open until the beginning of fall practice and possibly give it to a walk-on. And there is a chance we could wind up with an extra scholarship and save it for next year."

Eastern is losing the services of five seniors: Dirk Androff, Troy Richardson, Steve Hopkins, Paul Nedig and Tim Dykstra.

"I really don't know the appropriate words to use to describe this group of seniors," Samuels noted. "They are probably the finest bunch ever to graduate from Eastern that I've had the pleasure of coaching."

"While we are losing a really talented group of players, it should be noted that I expect this to be one of the finest recruiting years since I've been here."

"Physically, the freshmen I hope to sign Wednesday are ready to contribute immediately on a strength level under our concept of basketball," he said.

"I think we've helped ourselves at every position on the floor," Samuels continued.

Eastern finished with a 20-10 record, that included the post-season Association of Mid-Continent Universities' basketball championship.

"That was a very positive note to finish the season on," Samuels appraised. "If anything, our winning that tournament helped to firm up the decisions of our new recruits in case they had been swaying."

Like any other job, being a Division I basketball coach has its drawbacks.

"Recruiting takes so much of your time. Those guys out there," Samuels said, pointing to the offices of Yount and Harris, "have really been tied down with recruiting."

"For instance, we know who the juniors are that we will be going after next year. Recruiting takes an awful lot of your time, but it's all part of the game and you have to do it to remain competitive," Samuels said.

Men netters beat Sangamon State in tough match

by Frank Polich
 SPRINGFIELD, IL.—They don't win pretty, but they keep on winning.
 Eastern's men's tennis team won five of the six singles matches and held on through doubles to notch another victory by beating Sangamon State University 6-3 Tuesday.
 "We had the match won after singles play and I guess we had a little let down," head coach John Bennett said.
 In singles play, No. 1 player Scott Fjelstad pulled out a tough 6-4, 6-3 decision over Dave Roessler. "Scott played a good, tough match. Roessler (his opponent) had a booming serve that was tough to return," Bennett said.
 No. 2 singles player John Suter lost a three-set 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 match to Hank Lystad. "If Suter could have won a few crucial points, the outcome might have been reversed," Bennett added.

Meanwhile, Eric Laffey easily handled Tony Fanning 6-0, 6-3 at No. 3 singles and Bob Kirkwood defeated John Turner 6-1, 7-5 at the No. 4 slot.
 Rounding out singles play, No. 5 Don Carstens won a close 6-3, 6-4 match over Sean Burns while Mark Matijasevich beat Bill Gaffigan 6-4, 6-2 at the No. 6 position.
 Turning to doubles, the Panthers No. 1 and No. 2 doubles tandem both lost their matches. Fjelstad and Suter dropped a difficult two-set match to Roessler and Lystad by identical 7-6 scores.
 The No. 2 team of Laffey and Kirkwood was beaten by Sangamon's duo of Fanning and Burns 6-7, 7-5, 7-5.
 In doubles, the only bright spot for the Panthers came at No. 3 where Carstens and Matijasevich handled Turner and Gaffigan 7-5, 6-2.
 The men's netters next match is Thursday against the Redbirds of Illinois State University in Normal.

Panthers reap benefit of Illini errors, win 8-2

Panther shortstop Terry McDevitt turns over one of the Panthers' four double-plays en route to an 8-2 upset victory Tuesday over Big Ten foe University of Illinois. With the win, the sluggers raised their overall record to 17-6-1. (News photo by Frank Polich)

 Daily Eastern News Correspondents
 CHAMPAIGN—Lady Luck shined her pretty face upon Eastern's baseball team Tuesday as the Panthers trounced Illinois, 8-2.
 The Panthers, 17-6-1, took advantage of five Illini errors that resulted in six unearned runs.
 "Lady Luck smiled on us today," coach Tom McDevitt said. "When you get the help of five errors and four double plays, you're probably going to win."
 Bill Jose, making a spot start for the injury-riddled Panthers, scattered nine hits and allowed two walks while striking out four. The junior went the distance, upping his record to 2-1.
 "I have to take advantage of every chance I get," Jose said. "I just went out and threw strikes."
 Eastern took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when third baseman Tim Torricelli scored on a ground-out by Kendall Snyder.
 Illinois, 26-10, answered with its only runs of the game in the bottom of the second. Designated hitter Darrin Fletcher tripled in one run and scored the second on a sacrifice fly.
 However, the Panthers regained the lead with a five-run fourth inning fueled by three Illini errors.
 Designated hitter Bernard Holland got things rolling with a one-out double. Successive Illini errors put Kevin Smith and Kendall Snyder on base, while allowing Holland to score the tying run.

Following a walk to Rick Steriot that loaded the bases, Eastern went ahead to stay when Illini pitcher Greg McCollum made a throwing error on a squeeze bunt by catcher Alswinn Kieboom that allowed two runs to score.
 "I was surprised at their errors," McDevitt said. "But, hey that can happen. I never kick a gift horse in the mouth."
 Eastern's defense thwarted four potential Illini rallies by turning timely double plays in the first, fifth, sixth and seventh innings.
 The Panthers then extended their lead to 8-2 with two runs—their only earned runs—in the sixth. Kieboom knocked in Snyder, who had doubled with one out. Shortstop Terry McDevitt drove in Kieboom for the game's final run.
 Illinois threatened in both the seventh and ninth innings when Jose began to tire, but he managed to work his way through each.
 "I really began to tire in the middle of the eighth," Jose said. "I began to develop a stiff elbow. I just threw fastballs up there because I had the lead."
 Eastern will travel to Indiana State for a double-header with the 17th-ranked Sycamores. Right-handers Mike Steinkamp and Brian Corn will be the Panther starting pitchers.
Eastern— 010 502 000 8
Illinois— 020 000 000 2

Western nips lady netters in final match

by Joseph Anglum
 Eastern's women's tennis team just missed in its upset bid over cross-state rival Western Illinois University Tuesday at the Weller Courts.
 The Panthers, who had lost to the Westerwinds 7-2 during the fall season, excelled in all phases of the game, but came up just short and lost 5-4.
 "As a team we played very well," head coach Gail Richard said. "This was probably our best match of the season."
 In No. 2 doubles play, Eastern's Sally Stout and Gina Andres spanked Western's Dana Ford and Carolyn Kupferschmid 6-4 and 7-5.
 Down 3-5 in the second set, Stout and Andres used an aggressive style of play to tame any hopes of a Westerwind comeback.
 "We were more on our game today," Stout said. "We knew we had to play our game and hit out. We had to play our own style."
 Andres continued her winning ways and contributes her newly found success to confidence in herself.
 "Confidence, that's the difference," Andres said. "Sally and I have been in every match. When we play aggressive ball, we win."
 The Panthers' No. 3 doubles team of Patti Kearns and Lori Zupanci was equally successful as they roared past Western's Kris Juneman and Angie Andrews 6-3 and 6-2.
 The win gave Eastern a two games to one advantage heading into singles play, where Andres continued to devastate her opponents.
 The No. 6 singles player whipped Western's Angie Andrews in two sets 6-0 and 6-1.
 "Everything's coming together," Andres said. "The spring break trip really helped us because we played some really good competition."

 Zupanci, Eastern's No. 5 singles player, annihilated Juneman by 6-3 and 6-0 margins.
 However, Eastern's Patti Kearns and Stout, playing No. 3 and 4 singles respectively, were downed by Ford and Kupferschmid with one match remaining to determine the outcome of the game.
 With the games tied at four a piece, the match would be decided by the outcome of the No. 2 singles match between Eastern's Diana Durkee and Western's Dana Weber.
 Durkee downed Weber in the first set 6-3 and took the upper hand in the match.
 However, Weber would not be denied the victory as she won the next two sets 6-3 and 7-5 and clinch the match for Western.
